The U.S. under-17 national pool player returned from residency camp for his senior year and led the Coyotes to their first state championship. A talented center midfielder who dropped in defensively, he scored several key goals in playoffs but was content to do the dirty work as well.

The 6-foot-1, 190-pounder was a sensational two-way standout. He was his team's top receiver and led the way on defense. At cornerback, he intercepted seven passes, including two in the Washington Catholic Athletic Conference championship game, and broke up 10 more. As a wide receiver, he had 29 catches for 484 yards and four touchdowns, including the decisive score in the Falcons' 14-7 victory over DeMatha in the title game.
